REFERRALS

HELP IS HERE

Victims of domestic violence can feel isolated from the world. They may feel unable to tell friends and family about the abuse they are suffering. These feelings are very common.

However, there is help available. Within this brochure there is a complete listing of resources and phone numbers for victims of domestic violence.

The people who offer these services care about your well-being. If they cannot assist you they can direct you to resources that can.

Please call 911
if you are in immediate danger

The police can respond much quicker and assist you immediately. Hotline and other resources listed in this brochure do not have the capability to assist you during a domestic violence assault.
